Provide supporting field reliability, availability, and maintainability data and estimates. The CRMP shall establish procedures for the Contractor to track all necessary reports and documentation in a compliant Verification and Validation process, and submit them for review

Reliability, Availability and Maintainability

Reliability, availability, and maintainability (RAM) are three system attributes that are of tremendous interest to systems engineers, logisticians, and users. Collectively, they affect economic life-cycle costs of a system and its utility.

Chapter 1 Reliability, Availability, Maintainability, and the Department of Defense 1.1 Introduction The primary objective of Department of Defense (DoD) acquisition is to acquire quality products (systems) that satisfy user needs with measurable improvements to mission capability and operational support in a timely manner, and at a fair and reasonable price.1 This guide supports that ...

DOD RELIABILITY, AVAILABILITY, AND MAINTAINABILITY

The collection of techniques concerned with reliability, availability, maintainability and safety are often referred to as RAMS. A single defect can easily cost $100 in diagnosis and repair if it is detected early in production whereas the same defect in the field may well cost $1000 to rectify. If it transpires that the failure is a design fault then the cost of redesign, documentation and ...

RELIABILITY, AVAILABILITY, MAINTAINABILITY, AND COST (RAM)

Therefore, not only is availability a function of reliability, but it is also a function of maintainability. Table 1 below displays the relationship between reliability, maintainability and availability. Please note that in this table, an increase in maintainability implies a decrease in the time it takes to perform maintenance actions.

Relationship Between Availability and Reliability

RAM refers to Reliability, Availability and Maintainability. Reliability is the probability of survival after the unit/system operates for a certain period of time (e.g. a unit has a 95% probability of survival after 8000 hours).
